There's no mystery about the whiteness and cleanliness of clothes laundered here. We simply use plenty of soap and water.

That's also the reason why your linens don't fall to pieces in a few washings when we do them.

TALKS ON REINCARNATION.

Mrs. Florence Duffie Lectures at Theosophical Hall.

"Reincarnation" was the subject of a lecture delivered at Theosophical Hall, 1517 H street, by Mrs. Florence Duffie yesterday morning.

This doctrine, the lecturer said, was an accepted teaching in the Christian church until 500 years after Christ, when at the second council of Constantinople it was declared heresy.

"We do not remember our past lives," said the speaker, "because the brain dies. Only the ego, the real man, is eternal, and in him is stored up the memory of all past experiences, manifesting themselves in each new life in innate faculties and powers. Well authenticated instances of persons who have remembered the events of former existences are of record."

Miss Huggins favored the audience with renditions of "Ella's Dream," from "Lobengrin," and Chopin's "Prelude."

TAKOMA PARK.

The fortnightly meeting of the Takoma Pico Hundred Club was held Friday night at the home of Miss Louise Cruik, in Eastern avenue. Ladies' first prize was won by Miss Mida Miller, and second honors were awarded to Miss Hazel Van Houten. Gentlemen's first prize went to William Bacon, and second prize to Dr. D. J. Mattingly. Those present were Misses Charlotte Brown, Elizabeth Cady, Louise Cruik, Marjorie Hill, Mildred Hoge, Irene Koutz, Mida Miller, Hazel Van Houten, and Messrs. William Bacon, John Cady, William Hunt, Keller, Dr. D. J. Mattingly, George Smith, James G. Taylor, and Charles Warren. Refreshments were served. The next meeting of the club will be held December 15 at the residence of Miss Koutz.

The regular monthly meeting of the Theta Phi Sigma Society was held last night at the home of Miss Cynthia Van Wick, at Linden.

The first election of State officers in Arizona will be held December 12.

FORGET M'NAMARAS TO HONOR THE DEAD

Printers Pay Tribute to Deceased Members.

NO MENTION OF THE BROTHERS

President Roberts, in Brief Address, Shows Clearly that Dynamiting Outrage Had Marred Memorial Services—Representative Stanley Praises Organized Labor's Stand.

Forgetting for the time the shame of the McNamaras, Columbia Typographical Union, No. 101, yesterday afternoon paid tribute to those members whose names have been stricken from the roster by the Grim Reaper in the last year. Forty-two members of the union have gone to their last reward within a twelve-month, and it was to honor the memory of the two score that sacred services were held. The auditorium of Typographical Temple was crowded.

Not only members of the union, but relatives of the deceased printers and their friends gathered to hear sung the praises of the departed. Although two addresses were delivered, no mention of the McNamaras was made. But beneath the surface could be felt a grief, not only for those who have gone to honored graves, but a sorrow that the memorial services should be held on a day when the entire nation was thinking of two representatives of organized labor whose memory never can be recalled with pride.

President F. C. Roberts, in a brief address, showed clearly that he believed the memorial services had been marred by the shame of the McNamaras brothers. He did not mention their names, but he said that advocates of organized labor should not be grieved that their brothers had made a mistake in the selection of two leaders.

President Roberts recited a poem, which told the story of the life and death of a girl millworker, and concluded:

"These men in whose honor we are gathered to-day gave up a part of their lives to the fight against child workers. We all are making the fight. And those who died before the battle was ended carried with them to the grave the glory which will be seen by those who live to witness the victory."

Representative A. O. Stanley, of Kentucky, delivered an oration, in which he concluded with a tribute to organized labor by honoring the names of those members of the union whose deaths occurred last year. Mr. Stanley dwelt on the problems of life and death, and revealed to his hearers that he, too, was thinking of the McNamaras case.

While the Congressman refrained from actual mention of the names of the confessed dynamiters, he declared that organized labor stood for law and order.

"I believe law should be sacred and holy," he said, "and so strong that the most powerful must bow before it and look up to it as next to Him who reigns above all."

Reads Names of Dead.

A touching ritual accompanied the reading of the roll of the deceased members by Secretary George G. Seibold. The forty-two names were lettered in white on a black background in a long, shining frame on the platform, and as Secretary Seibold pronounced the list of the forty-two names a black velvet curtain was drawn, covering for all time the names of those who have passed to answer the eternal call. The programme was as follows:

Selection, piano, Channing Williams Lefebvre Organist, St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Washington.

Chairman memorial committee, Arthur, "Whoso Breatheth," Sir George C. Martin, M. C. St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Washington.

Invocation, "Remembered," Teina, Miss Ethel Lee, Seattle.

Hymn, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," Audience and choir.

Solo, "Gloria to Thee, My God," Charles Gould, Henry Russell, Seattle, and Miss Ethel Lee, Seattle.

Three violin, viola, and piano, Selected, Miss Ruby Stanford, Miss Ethel Lee, Seattle.

Solo, "O Divine Redeemer," Charles Gould, Seattle.

Acclamation, "King All Glorious," Sir J. E. Barnaby.

List of the Deceased.

Following is the list of the forty-two members who died within the last year: Charles F. Fletcher, James M. Matile, Thomas C. Pursell, William D. Thornton, Ira M. Ingalls, Robert L. Glenn, John A. Handlin, William Sefton, Frank P. Lippincott, John L. Loughran, John A. Griffin, Benjamin C. Wright, Lewis H. Whitman, Vernon Koch, John F. Hauer, William E. STRICKEN FAMILY IN DIRE DISTRESS

Mother and Sister of Harry Smith Destitute.

The cloud of poverty still hangs over the Smith household, 1307 Florida avenue northwest, which has been robbed of its happiness and main source of support by the tragic deaths of the little son Harry, alleged to have been killed by Tony Milano, and of the daughter Myrtle, who was driven to suicide by the wave of sorrow which swept over the once happy home. The home is without any present source of income.

Mrs. Smith has been ill for some time, and will be unable to work for many months. May, the remaining daughter, is an employee of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, but, overcome by the tragic deaths of her brother and sister, she has been unable to go to work for fully two months.

The family is confronted with large bills caused by the two funerals following so closely, and with no source of income the debts are becoming larger, and the cloud of want more threatening. Several persons have already contributed money for the aid of the sorrow-stricken family. The contributions so far amount to $40.

The Washington Herald will receive any contributions which the people of the city may feel disposed to make to help the family from the alyse into which it has been thrown so suddenly. A list of the amounts and the names of the contributors will be published.

MRS. SARAH BURCHELL DEAD.

Last Survivor of Older Generation of Van Ness Family.

The funeral of Mrs. Sarah F. Burchell, aged eighty-seven, who died yesterday morning at her home, 1102 Vermont avenue, will be held to-morrow afternoon from the home. Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, pastor of St. John's Episcopal Church, will officiate. The burial will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Burchell was the last surviving member of the older generation of the Van Ness family. Her mother, Catherine Van Ness, was a cousin of John P. Van Ness, the Congressman from New York who played a prominent part in having the present site chosen for the Capital of the nation.
